BGH Announces Top Scholastic Groups

Dan Willits Tops 4-Year Honors List Eleven Graduate With "B And Better"

While Belle Glade High School takes pride in most of her students, there are eleven seniors whom she regards with particular esteem for their outstanding scholastic records during their entire high school careers.

Heading the list of honor students who have a record of 3.5 to 4.0 of a possible 4 points is Dan Willits. Others following closely in the honor group are Sandra Drea, Ronnie Geckler, Linda Wilder, and Frank Matthews.

At their heels scholastically are the following in the high academic achievement group of 3.0 to 3.5: Stevie Kaufman, Phillip Mansfield, Mary Ellen Jimmerson, Linda Meeks, Richard Foster, and Eileen Lindrose, (lower right corner, page 1).

All the students have an average of B or above, for the 3 represents B, while the 4 symbolizes A.

Following the precedent set by last year's graduating class, the higher group is being honored as "honor students" and the second high, "high academic achievement students." The purpose is to pay tribute to those seniors whose academic records have been particularly outstanding. As last year, both groups will be available to local civic organizations on the eve of their graduation to discuss their own attitudes toward the total school program of Belle Glade High School.

"We're Glad This True" We recently asked the question, "Why not teach reading, rithmetic and in our schools?" Apparently, "it done - even if not in the old way!"

We are informed by Pellon Morris, the indefatigable Principal of Belle Glade High School that:

Of 19 Belle Glade HI Graduates attending the University of Florida and Florida State University, There is But One Three-hour failure in a total of 228 college hours taken.

The average grade of the group is 2.5 of a possible, perfect grade of 4.

We congratulate Pellon Morris and his corps of Belle Glade High School Teachers.

The chances are that you like us - didn't know these facts and therefore haven't recognized a job well done!

A kind word to your pupil's teacher, elementary and High will help stretch the UN-REAL-ASTIC payroll check!

Will The Tails Last?

We interrupt our disgust hour - when we read the daily diplomatic news - occasionally with a Pollyanna-ish smile and question, "I wonder if the tails will last."

This refers to the game of "Pinning the Tail on" individuals in our State Department and other brain trusters who originate and attempt to execute a fantastic "coup d'etat."

We refer to our give-away programs in general, and political mamby-pambys, whose force is not statesmanship, in dealing with communism in our hemisphere.

The coroll of flop-ered "no need" "tails pinned on" will include some who, heretofore, have been running out-of-class with thoroughbreds!

We apparently will need automation in the manufacture of "Jackass Tails" to supply the need for the unfenced and unbridled.

Some good comes of everything and act; in this, we discover our dressed-up mistakes. BUT

WILL THE TAILS LAST?

Fifteen Businesses Join DCT Program

The Diversified Training Program (DCT) of the Belle Glade High School, Temple Sunday, June 4, at 3:30 p. m. A reception for Miss Kraus will be present from various clubs in the district.

"It is through the cooperation of these business firms that make it possible for us to conduct the DCT program," Wayne K. Fortenberry, Coordinator, says, "and to train our young people in occupations and help them find places in the business world."

Mr. Fortenberry is preparing a list of participants for next year's program, both students and employers and will be glad to discuss the matter with any prospective employer.

Those participating this year are:

Glades Chevrolet Company, Everglades Motors, Inc., Thebaud's Insurance Agency, Inc., Auto Supply, Belle Glade Memorial Hospital, Royals Department Store, Dr. Lucie's Dental Office, Everglades Experimental Station, Dr. Mulholland's Dental Office, Harris Insurance Agency, Hollingsworth Shoe Store, Palm Beach Co. Sheriffs Dept., E. Ziller's Gross and Associates, Kwik Check-Meat Dept. Claude Jones Attorney.

BPW Club Installation Slated Sunday, June 4

Miss Helen Kraus, treasurer of the National Federation of Business and Professional Women's club will install officers of the Belle Glade BPW at the Masonic Temple Sunday, June 4, at 3:30 p. m. A reception for Miss Kraus will be present from various clubs in the district.

Summer Hours At PO Begin Thursday

"Beginning this morning summer hours and schedules will be observed by our postoffice, according to Mrs. Rosa Nash, Assistant Postmaster.

The local office will close at noon on Saturdays and on Wednesdays.

Due to the fact that mail does not arrive here on Sundays and holidays until 9:30 a. m., no one is on duty until that time and therefore the distribution of first-class mail on these days is completed before noon.

"It is necessary that outgoing mail be in the postoffice by 1:15 p. m. in order to make connections for all points. On holidays mails close at 6:15 for the only dispatch of the day."

Ft. Benning Welcome Relief After Legislative Control

Although this legislature considered 4246 bills as against 3516 for '59, "this has been a controlled legislature - not in the best interests of the majority of the citizens of the state of Florida - for, in my opinion, has not provided adequately for the needs of the citizens," Representative Emmett Roberts wires us.

"After this battle Fort Benning will be a welcome relief."

He continues, "many good projects have been rejected; it's all right to hold the line if it does not represent progress. Additional money will be needed to take care of our growing population."

"We have passed most of our local bills; the magistrate's court bill will prove of great help to the citizens of the Glades. The Belle Glade charter and drainage bills have passed; over fifty local bills have become law from Palm Beach County."

"This has been a controlled legislature with the leaders of the senate and house holding complete control over all important legislation."

"The 1961 Legislature has proven most difficult for the Palm Beach County delegation. The pressure on objection as a result of attempts to divide Lake Okechobee, the securing of appropriations for Boca Raton University, the congressional redistricting and numerous local bills."

"Our position has been almost unbearable at times as we have had to be very careful not to alienate our friends who were supporters on every project."

"We have finally defeated the Lake Okechobee bill with considerable effort. When you buck four small counties which are members of the small county bloc you have serious problems. GIVE 'EM CREDIT - MOSES GOT ONE, THEY WANT FOUR

"We've taught that in Biblical times Moses commanded the waves to be still and the waters to part - ONCE - and they did."

Four county delegations, members of the Florida small county bloc, commanded the "parting of the waters of Lake Okechobee," and were ambitious enough to ask for FOUR partitions - and they almost succeeded, with no inkling of opposition from the administration."

We have secured all the monies possible for Boca Raton University in view of the tight money situation in the state. If the economy of the state increases somewhat over the estimates I feel Boca Raton construction will be started. There is no question that the building of Boca Raton University is assured, however, the opening would be delayed if our economy slows up."

We are discouraged over the congressional redistricting as Palm Beach and Broward counties are still tied together to form the largest district. This battle is not over."

Will Do Best We Can On Forecasts Chief Reichelderfer Tells Rogers

Congressman Rogers sends us a letter from Chief of the National Weather Bureau, F. W. Reichelderfer in which the Weather Bureau reports and forecasting for the coming year. "The Chief says further, 'We are asking our District Forecasts to discuss the subject fully with the Editor of the BELLE GLADE HERALD.' Thanks, Chief; anytime at his convenience!"

Rogers Appalled At Gifts To Cuba

"Castro may use this money to feed and clothe the communist experts he has featherbedded, buy more tractors to add to those he hopes to get in exchange for his fellow countrymen, and send impressionable young students abroad for a thorough exposure to curricula offered at Peking University," Congressman Paul Rogers told Congress in commenting on $400,000 gift by the United States to Cuba through the United Nations for the purpose of 'improving the technological level of Cuba.'"

"This loan has great political consideration - the United States paid 40 per cent of it," the Congressman continued, though "political considerations are outlawed in its decisions."

"The United States challenging the Cuban request on the grounds that it has not cooperated with the world organization, has misused its natural resources as demonstrated by its want on slaughter of livestock, and must not need too many experts and consultants as there are already over 500 Soviet Peking operatives in Cuba now."

"Mr. Speaker, this decision yesterday appalled me, as I'm sure it did the rest of Congress. We must develop a co-ordinated policy in this country. We must begin to act with some semblance of purpose, in contrast to our present and past policy on Cuba, which presents an unbelievable paradox. We have withdrawn diplomatic relations, stopped exports, branded Castro's government communist, and supported free Cubans in their efforts for liberation. Surely this policy can not continue if we expect to advance freedom full speed."

The Congressman also asked a joint congressional committee to operate in complete secrecy. The CIA handles jobs which it is fearful to allow Congress to even know about, such as the $45 million rumored to have been secretly spent on a Marks Brothers invasion."

Student Council Officers Elected For 1961-62 In First Two Party-Campaign At BG High School

Following pre-convention maneuvering, in which all students were enrolled in either the Seminole or Gator party, nominations and selections were made of candidates for each of the Student Council positions to be filled by each political party and the race was on.

Party and candidate pop talks, individual cards for candidates and a general political atmosphere were created and indulged in by the student body as that of the 425 eligible voters attending on the day of the election, 420 actually cast a ballot. The purpose to acquaint students with what they will find in their roles as citizens appears to have been well calculated.

BG Hi Student Body Campaigns In Realistic Two Party Race

This was the first time student body elections were organized along political lines. Each student was enrolled into one of the parties and was given an opportunity to participate in this party. An earnest attempt was made to develop a realistic political situation with each party holding a nominating convention to select its slate of officers. Party leaders were selected in each homeroom and on a school wide basis.

Uncle Dan From Democrat River
Dear Mister Editor:
This fellow John Duncan from Georgia that's holding down the Assistant Secretary of Agriculture job is a good talker, a real live wire. He came out the other day with a order in his Department that from now on all excess food in this country shall be known official as our "abundance" instead of "surplus." He sounds better'n "surplus."
Now if he can come up with a plan to store our abundance or give it away without costing the taxpayers a fortune, he ought to be in line for bigger and better things in the Government. Come 1964, us farmers and ranchers might even run him for President on the "abundance" ticket.
He also claims the official figures show only one-fourth of the income in this country goes for food. The trouble with that fellow is his old lady ain't sent him to the grocery store lately. My old lady came home Saturday hollering about a head of cabbage costing her 8 cent a pound. She allowed as how, if inflation keeps getting worse, it'll be cheaper to eat money. Of course, my old lady ain't above exaggerating things when she gets riled up. "My memory ain't as good as it used to be," she

Report Of Evaluation Committee

BELLE GLADE JUNIOR-SENIOR HIGH SCHOOLS
(Editor's Note: The reports of this two score of authorities composing the Committee, we believe, should be a matter of concern for all parents. We will present them each week until the subject is covered.)
School and Community
The faculty of the Belle Glade Junior-Senior High School are congratulated on the thorough and comprehensive analysis of the community and the pupil population served by the school. The members of the committee are in complete agreement that they have not seen a more effective job done in this aspect of the evaluative process. The data and analysis reveal many significant points of interest to be considered in plans for further improvements in an already excellent educational program. Among these points we call special attention to the following:
1. This is truly a unique community. The culture, social structure, and economy of the community are distinctive in many ways. The nature of the way of life of the community is such that it presents a unique challenge and opportunity to develop an educational program serving the needs of the community. The school more closely related to the life experiences of pupils than is the case in most communities. It is the hope of the existing committee that you will exploit this opportunity completely. The already established excellent relationship between the school and the community is a basic first step in this direction. The continuous involvement of lay people in the community in the development of the school program, and of utilizing problems of community development for furthering the learning of pupils includes the next steps. Only through such exploitation of the present excellent relationships be maintained.
2. As is to be expected there is a relatively high drop-out rate among students. Table A, "Enrollment and Graduates," reveals that in 1955-56 there were 126 pupils enrolled in the seventh grade, two years later, there were 143 enrolled in the ninth grade, but four years later (1960-61) there are only 85 enrolled in the twelfth grade. Table E, "Withdrawals," indicates that each year 25 percent of the pupils withdrew for one reason or another. It is encouraging to note that the largest single cause of withdrawal was for transfer to another school because of change of residence. In a sense those who withdrew because of this cannot be considered as drop-outs.
3. In mental ability the pupils are typical of the total population in the country, in both range and distribution. It is interesting to note, too, that the distribution of level of ability is very similar from grade to grade. To the extent that these data are valid they indicate that the school program does not discriminate against pupils of relatively low academic ability. Apparently an effective program is in place to provide meaningful experiences for all ability levels. This is highly commendable.
4. The committee suggests that a continuous study be made of the drop-outs in an effort to determine realistic causes, and as a basis for improving the program of offerings designed to reduce drop-outs.
5. In view of the changing nature of the community, due to the influx of new industry, it is recommended that a study be made of changing employment opportunities, and that changes in the vocational program of the school be made in keeping with these expanding opportunities.
6. In a high school evaluation report reference is seldom made to adult education, and in view of the unique nature of the Belle Glade community, however, the committee feels obligated to comment on this aspect of the total program of education. In the long run it is not likely that significant improvements in the program for youth will be made unless there is an adequate program for meeting the adult educational needs in the community. The adult education needs are of several varieties. Among these are:
a. Past secondary education opportunities in academic general education, and semi-professional and pre-professional education for high school graduates who cannot go away to the colleges or universities.
b. Terminal general education of a broad cultural nature for adults interested in self-improvement.
c. Vocational Agricultural education to assist agricultural workers in mastering new skills made necessary by modern farm techniques.
d. Trade and industrial education to provide a working force for the new industries locating in the community.
e. Clerical training to meet

Over 1,000 Lay Delegates Expected At Florida Methodist Conference

Some 1,000 ministerial and lay delegates are due to attend the 119th annual sessions of the Florida Methodist conference one at Leesburg, Lakeland June 5-9 at the First Methodist Church.

They will represent the 245,000 members of 550 churches in the geographical conference, which embraces all of Florida except the extreme northwest counties.

Douglas Thompson, Sr., will be lay delegate for the Community Methodist Church and will be leaving Monday a. m. The Rev. Lee Rustin will leave earlier as he is counselor on Board of Education, and chairman of committee on new camp sites in South Florida and also North Florida. These new camp sites will be in addition to the Florida Methodist conference one at Leesburg.

Presiding for the first time at the annual sessions will be Bishop James W. Hentley of Jacksonville, formerly of Nashville, Tenn., he was elected a bishop of The Methodist church last July and assigned to administer the Jacksonville Episcopal area. He succeeded the late Bishop John Branscomb.

The annual conference is the basic governing body in the Methodist organization. A regional body with fixed boundaries, its name comes from the fact that it is convened yearly and the ministerial members, regardless of their positions, are subject to annual appointment by the presiding bishop. The Methodist Church in the United States is composed of 100 such conferences.

Reading of the annual ministerial appointments is scheduled for the closing session on June 9.

Gov. Farris Bryant will address the body June 9 at the annual "Laymen's Night" program.

Church of Christ Scientist

"God the Only Cause and Creator" is the subject of the Lesson-Sermon to be heard at all Christian Science churches Sunday.

Readings from the King James Version of the Bible will include this verse from Revelation (4): "Thou art worthy, O Lord, to receive glory and honor and power: for by thy pleasure they are and were created."

One of the correlative passages to be read from "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy states (p. 207): "There is but one primal cause. Therefore there can be no effect from any other cause, and there can be no reality in aught which does not proceed from this great and only cause."

The Golden Text is from Psalm 12: "Blessed be the Lord God, the God of Israel, who only doeth wondrous things."

WPB Canal Enlargement Economically Feasible

Says Engineers Report

Enlargement of a 17-mile section of West Palm Beach Canal from the coast inland, designed to provide improved flood control for a Palm Beach residential area has been found economically feasible in an official report of the U. S. Army Corps of Engineers.

Included in the proposed plan would be a water-control structure at the point where the canal crosses U. S. Highway 1 in West Palm Beach. Initial costs of the contract project estimated by Engineers at $3,663,800, exclusive of land costs.

Local interests, who are represented by the 18-county Central and Southern Florida Flood Control District, would be required to contribute 12.8 percent of the contract price in addition to furnishing the necessary lands. The local share of the cost of construction is estimated at $443,700.

Upon completion, the improvements would become a part of the Central and Southern Florida Flood Control Project.

Army Engineers said a structure near U. S. Highway 441 to control water levels in the adjacent agricultural area, was found to be "not feasible" and was not included in the recommended plan.

"Fishermen Beware" Says U. S. Engineers

That's the word from the U. S. Army Corps of Engineers to commercial fishermen who have any ideas about setting traps or nets in the navigable waters.

Army Engineers issued a warning to fishermen today after receiving a report that a shad fisherman in the St. Johns River was stretching nets near all the way across the river, used side channel. The fisherman became irked when boats plowed through the river and tore up his nets.

So, according to the complaint to the Corps of Engineers, the fisherman decided to "ride shotgun" on his set nets and warn off any boats that venture near his fish traps. The Corps of Engineers took a dim view of his reported tactics and issued a warning that federal law forbids obstructions in the waterways.

The warning was punctuated with the note that the penalty for violation is from $500 to $2,500 fine or imprisonment for not more than a year or both. Purpose of the notice, according to Colonel J. V. Solobuch, District Engineer, is to remind all persons that placing of seines or nets in or across any fairway regularly used by navigation is unlawful. All violators reported to this office will be prosecuted, he said.

He said there is no objection to placing seines, or nets or traps outside the regularly used fairways, provided they are attended or marked in such a way as to warn boats of their location. But not with shotguns, the district engineer insisted.
